E-HIRE MAKES SENSE FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL COMPANIES

Compete effectively and say good-bye to spreadsheets and paper. Paper slows everything down. It's also makes it cumbersome to identify and track the applicants you and your managers want. Use E-hire's automated data gathering and evaluation systems to contact and evaluate the best applicants before your competition and store everything electronically.

Operate with speed and efficiency. E-hire is an online SaaS (software as a service). Safer Places, Inc. provides all the security, maintenance, upgrades, delivery and training, so there is no burden on your IT department and no hardware or software to purchase. Your branded recruiting website can be set up in one day, configured by you the next day and by day three you are ready to go.

Increase applicant flow. Your Safer Places, Inc.-built career website becomes your face to the job seeker world and can be linked to job boards like Monster and Career Builder. "Telling and selling" your company through your career website is far less expensive than traditional advertising and more comprehensive than job boards.

Save time and reduce costs. Open positions are bad for business. With E-hire, you can post positions and start processing applicants as soon as you need them. And your cost can be as low as a few dollars a day.

Automate workflow. With E-hire you can quickly and easily manage responses, test applicants, schedule interviews and appointments, and communicate with applicants — all from one centralized system. As soon as a hiring decision is made, manage the offer along with all of the new hire on-boarding steps right from your desktop.
