By Experian

Description:

Two types of credit reports are available:

1. A Credit Profile Report from Experian gives you the accurate, current and complete information you need to make a sound business decision.
2. An Employment Insight Report by Experian enhances traditional employment decision making tools by quickly verifying information provided by job applicants.

Features:

Verify name & address, previous addresses and Social Security Number as reported on the consumer's file. Employers name(s) and aliases used (example: maiden name) are often shown as well.

Public records (civil actions, liens, bankruptcies, etc.) and tradelines showing credit grantors, date account opened, balance due, date of last payment and the payment history during the past 25 months.

A profile summary and a Fair Isaac Risk Score are also available. (Credit scores are not available on Employment Insight reports).

Benefits:

Make smarter decisions regarding apartment rentals and other business transactions based on an individual's past credit history. Save time and money by avoiding having to chase those who do not have the ability or inclination to pay on time.

Make smarter hiring decisions based on an applicant's truthfulness on the employment application as well as their demonstrated integrity and ability to fulfill financial obligations.
