

Healthcare Sanction History Search By FACIS®

Description:

Fraud and Abuse Control Information System (FACIS) is a risk management tool to aid in identifying sanctioned individuals and entities. It is a web-based information service that provides sanction history of both individuals and entities associated with the healthcare field. Possible types of sanctions include exclusions, termination of license, suspension, revocation, probation and debarments from approximately 800 state and federal sources.

Benefits:

- Designed to assist CFO's, Risk Managers, Human Resource and Medical Staffing Service Personnel in precluding employment of an excluded individual or entity where reimbursement is sought from any federal healthcare program.
- Helpful in assisting healthcare companies avoid potential liabilities and risks of employing or contracting with individuals who have been subject to performance or behavior problems elsewhere.

Features:

- A single database search contains information from all 50 states (level 3) on individuals who have been the subject of state licensing board sanctions.
- Results are instantaneous
- Three levels of searches:
  - Level 1 conducts a search of the sanction information as taken by the OIG, the GSA and other federal agencies. The information reported in this level meets the government's minimum requirements for sanction screening as set forth in the OIG's Compliance Program Guidance.
  - Level 2 combines the Level 1 search of the federal agencies with disciplinary action information from multiple agencies and one state of choice.
  - Level 3 is the most robust search option, allowing you to conduct a search of disciplinary actions taken by federal agencies as well as those taken by licensing and certification agencies in all 50 states.
